

Call HoPUE Vol. 9, 2019 (Special Double Issue)

Theme: Resource consumption, climate changes and environmental sustainability

The Call focuses on recent environmental policies aimed at the efficient use of resources and better climate change adaptation.

Scientific contributions are selected on the following topics:

- green building and sustainable construction, with attention to the choice of materials and technologies that can reduce the environmental impact of the building;
- smart cities and urban transformation projects, in which digital technologies and access to information improve the lives of inhabitants and allow better use of urban areas, roads and public transport;
- saving of resources, conversion of production processes, circular economy;
- sustainable urban mobility, to protect the environment;
- green design, to improve well-being of those who live and work in urban areas.